New sixth grade plan envisions eventual demise of middle school

If the state approves funding to help with construction costs, and the district voters grant approval in referendum, S.A.D. 44 plans to build an addition onto the Crescent Park School in Bethel to house the students at Ethel Bisbee School as well as the sixth grade at Telstar Middle School.

The S.A.D. 44 Board of Directors' building and grounds subcommittee suggested last week that the district proceed with making district proposal to the state for funding. The state would then send a team to the district to determine the need for the addition. If the addition is approved and built, the Ethel Bisbee School will be closed and the Telstar Middle School will be done away with, according to Superintendent Dewaine Craig. The earliest that the addition could be open for use would be fall 1988, he said.

Mr. Craig told the Citizen the reasons for wanting to put the 23,000-square-foot addition onto the Crescent Park School are twofold: first, there is overcrowding in Telstar, at Crescent Park and at Ethel Bisbee. The moving of the Ethel Bisbee students and the Telstar 6th graders to an expanded Crescent Park would alleviate this.

Second, since Andover and Woodstock keep their 6th graders in the town elementary schools the 6th graders in the district are receiving differing educations, and newcomers to Telstar Middle School arrive either as 6th graders or 7th graders, thus defeating the purpose of having a middle school. "We don't offer the same curriculum or the same sequencing (for 6th graders throughout the district)," Mr. Craig said. "I see that as a problem."

With the 6th graders out of Telstar completely, the regional school would become a 7-12 junior-senior high school, the superintendent said, and the middle school administration would probably be eliminated.

Middle School Principal Walter Phillips likes the idea of having the 6th graders in a middle school environment. "It gives them more time to get used to departmentalization,"

TRANSPORTATION OF IN-TOWN C.P.S. STUDENTS TO BE TRIED IN AFTERNOON, NOV. 26-DEC. 21

Between Monday, Nov. 26, and Friday, Dec. 21, S.A.D. 44 will be operating an after-school trial bus run of five stops within Bethel village for the Crescent Park School students who walk after school. The trial busing is instituted due to the concern over "walking students" competing with the flow of traffic on Crescent Street, and safety problems resulting with the arrival of the winter season.

It is being requested that all walkers, except those who live in the Paradise area and walk across the back field behind C.P.S., ride a bus. This will also help those students who have a specific activity in town to arrive at their activity quicker and safer than walking the streets or the pathway through by the Ethel Bisbee School, another busy area for busing each afternoon. C.P.S. students are not to go to Ethel Bisbee School to pick up brothers and/or sisters. They should meet them at the corner of Philbrook and Main Streets where the crossing guard is on duty. Mrs. Madelyn "Duffy" Brooks will be on duty

Thayer takes over as Bethel's interim town manager

Dewey Thayer formally took over as Bethel's interim town manager Monday night after receiving a unanimous vote of the Board of Selectmen to approve the terms of a working agreement drafted between him and Board Chairman Arlan Jodrey.

By the terms of the agreement, Mr. Thayer, who is a retired town manager of St. George, will normally work about three hours a day plus participating in selectmen's meetings. He will be paid at the rate of $10 per hour, plus 20 cents per mile for auto expenses while journeying on town business.

He is to hold the office until a town manager is appointed—estimated to be about 100 days. And he is to hold the concurrent positions of treasurer, tax collector, road commissioner, general assistance administrator, airport manager and building inspector.

As the new chief administrator of the town, Mr. Thayer's first action was served by Hilda Brown (center) and her staff at Telstar Regional High School Sunday. The dinner was organized and sponsored by the National Honor Society students at the school for the school district's senior citizens. Approximately 150 guests showed up for the dinner which was topped off with homemade pies and entertainment by the Norway/Paris Senior Citizens' Band. The honor society students helped serve the banquet.

Bethel cable TV 'right on schedule' says official

"We're right on schedule," stated Dennis Nolin of Bethel Cablevision Co. when asked about progress on the cable television system for Bethel.

Mr. Nolin told The Citizen Tuesday that the engineering was completed and a lease had been signed with Charles Blake for a headend site, on the south side of Route 26, opposite the Blake residence. Within a few days, Al Saunders of Bryant Pond will begin construction of a 14' x 16' cement block building. Also occupying the site will be two earth stations (satellite dishes) and one utility pole. Work on the building should be completed in approximately two weeks.

Cables supplying service to customers will be placed on existing poles of New England Telephone, Central Maine Power Co. and Continental Telephone Company. The pole license with CMP and Contel has already been secured and the other with New England Telephone is pending.

Other progress reported by Mr. Nolin was the internal wiring of the new Opera House Condominiums in Bethel village and the signing of a franchise agreement with the town of Greenwood. He also stated that Bethel Cablevision Co. anticipated agreements would soon be reached with the towns of Woodstock and West Paris to provide cable television to those areas.

M.S.A.D. #44 BOARD TO MEET MONDAY, NOV. 26 AT TELSTAR

The S.A.D. 44 Board of Directors is to meet in the library at Telstar Regional High School at 7:30 on Monday evening, Nov. 26. Items requiring board action on the agenda include: student discipline issue (executive session); appointment of CPS full-time custodian, bus driver; 1985 board meeting schedule; equivalent instruction program (home study); teacher resignation; change in suspension/expulsion procedure.

PUBLIC HEARING AT NAPLES TO GATHER TESTIMONY FROM CONTEL CUSTOMERS

A public hearing to gather testimony from customers of Continental Telephone Company has been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 28, at the Naples Fire Station.

This hearing is to determine if Contel service has improved for its customers. The meeting will be held from 1 to 5 p.m., with a second session beginning at 6:30 and running as long as there are customers who want to speak.

According to Attorney William Black from the Public Advocate office in Augusta, this represents the second time in 12 months that a hearing has been held in Western Maine on the issue of Contel's service problems. On Nov. 16, 1983 the Public Utilities Commission took testimony in Raymond from 20 Contel customers. Complaints included such problems as line noises, telephones not ringing, disconnections, improper toll billing and fading conversations.

A decision, issued by the PUC in January, 1984, stated that "significant service problems exist in Contel's service territory." The company was granted a 17% increase in local service rates and ordered to report in six months in its efforts to improve service. The commission also stated "if service has not been improved to adequate levels, we will order rate reductions for customers receiving inadequate service."

Contel customers presently having difficulties with telephone service are urged to attend the Naples hearing to discuss their problems. Continental Telephone Company currently has a petition filed with the PUC asking for a 44% increase in local monthly rates. Customers appearing at the hearing may also express their opinions concerning this proposed rate increase.

Continental Telephone serves customers in the areas of Upton, Andover, Roxbury, Bethel, West Bethel, Locke Mills, North Norway, Newry, Stow, Gilead, Stoneham and North Lovell.

ADULT VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE OFFERING WINTER PLAY

The S.A.D. 44 Adult Volleyball League is offering a 12-week season starting on Nov. 21 for those who are interested in playing volleyball through the winter. The league will meet on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. if there is no Telstar basketball practice, and at 8:00 if there is basketball. The volleyball league is open to those not enrolled in secondary school and beginners are welcome. To enroll and for fee information, call the Adult and Community Education office. 824-2780.

ANDREWS CASKET FACTORY CHANGES HANDS

One of the oldest family-owned businesses in western Maine has been sold.

The J. W. Andrews & Son Casket Factory, located in South Woodstock near the Andrews Funeral Home, was recently purchased by Philip Strout, a native of Mechanic Falls, now residing in Poland.

Mr. Strout told The Citizen he plans to continue operation of the factory, which supplies wood caskets to funeral homes in southern Maine and Massachusetts. The business has two full-time and two part-time employees and was owned and operated by five generations of the Andrews family, as was the funeral home business until it was purchased by the Raymond funeral homes in January, 1982.

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

Saturday looked like it might be a good day. Hope so as many people were, on the way to Portland to join the National Grange. Russell and I had planned to go, but as neither of us are good at driving in the big city, we are staying behind instead. It would have been nice to be able to say that we belonged to the National Grange, but we do a lot of work in the subordinate Grange, so guess that will be enough; though we both belong to Pomona and State Granges. I hope all goes well and the folks have a good time and get their seventh degree in Grange as they wish to. Buses were heading out early Saturday to take members to Portland.

Last Saturday was spent doing a little cooking in the forenoon and in the afternoon, I sewed up a jumper for Wynona. She and Courtney had come and had lunch with us and stayed the afternoon. Michael had to work all day, a long day, at the store, so she came and visited while I sewed for her. My eyes aren't as good as they once were, so I have to have real good light to see to sew. The jumper looked pretty good when I got through and there is enough cloth left to make her a skirt too, I think. Got to try it one of these days when I can't find anything else to do. I'm still working on Christmas gifts and some times wonder if I will get them done by Christmas. Getting slow in my old age, I guess.

Sunday, Russell worked at putting lights up in the addition we have put on to the front of the home and Peggy went to visit with daughter Loreta in West Bethel as she was planning to leave Monday morning for Florida. Got some done on my Christmas things and that helps.

Monday morning, we were up to see Peggy off as she headed for Florida. She was going to Connecticut for a couple of nights to visit with relatives on her late husband's side of the family and then head for Florida on Wednesday.

from there, Russell took me to Harrison for one of my treatments, and then as I had an appointment with another doctor in the afternoon, went to Bridgton and had lunch, and then went to visit Hazel Abbott, an old and dear friend. I started writing to her after Mother passed away and have continued to since. She has been over here twice to visit and I thought it time I returned the calls. I am allergic to cats, so couldn't stay too long, but enjoyed the time we did have to visit. Also had to get back to North Bridgton for my appointment. I did a little crocheting in the evening.

Tuesday was another day for traveling as both Russell and I had to have eye exams in Lewiston. When we were through, we went to see Wynona and had lunch with her. Michael came for lunch while we were there, so had a chance to see him for a short while.

I decided Wednesday that I better get busy and wash the double windows and put them on. Was doing so when Lawrence came down to return a bucket and he stayed and helped Russell fix his lighting system in the addition. Russell hadn't gotten it to work and Lawrence found the trouble right off, so we soon had lights in the addition. Russell had called to see if the fruit had come in and finding it had, we went down and got it. He spent the afternoon sorting it out and getting it ready for delivery. Peggy had ordered the fruit as Christmas gifts for several and for the help everyone had given in helping her move.

Thursday, we left early in the morning to deliver the fruit at the places Peggy wanted us to and didn't get home until about lunch. I had taken my crocheting along and got some done as we traveled along. In the afternoon, I went to the doctor again as my back hadn't stayed after the first treatment. In the evening, we went to West Paris Grange as Russell had been asked to fill the Master's office for the evening. Lewis Marsoote, who is the regular master, was attending National Grange and the Overseer didn't want to be Master, so had asked Russell. We had planned several times to get to Grange there, but something seemed to come up so we didn't make it. We did this time and had a good evening. Russell was presented with a nice fruit basket and he had the luck to win both prizes in the Mystery March, so guess he got a good deal for being Master for the evening. We like to go when we can and it was good to see the many friends there.

Went to Norway on Friday morning and did the wash, got groceries, went to see one of ladies who came to my housewares party to remind her when I had to have the money and while there, Nonie and Courtney came in. We went shopping for a few items and then I had an appointment to keep, so Nonie headed for home and I was on my way. Got home a little after noon time and got a late lunch, then worked on Christmas items in the afternoon. Russell had stayed home and got several things done that he had been wanting to do, so it worked out good. In the evening, tried to watch television, but guess we both slept a little in our chairs.

Have heard from Peggy and she got into Florida yesterday, which was Friday, at about 11 a.m., so she had gone right along. Said the car ran like a charm and she made good time after leaving Connecticut Wednesday morning and was at her daughter's home. Her daughter, Kaye Blossie, lives in Fort Lauderdale and she will spend the week end there and go to the Hillsboro Club on Sunday, ready to go to work. Wish I had been able to go with her and work, but these ill brothers won't let me. She said she was a little too late to see the landing of the space shuttle and wished she had left a little earlier in the morning, but didn't know what time it was going to land and was a little too late to see it. Anyway, she is in Florida and we are all happy to know that she made the trip without any trouble. She hated to leave, yet, she doesn't like the cold winters here, so Monday was a hard day for her, but after getting onto the road, she was alright. Hope she has a good winter in Florida and expect she will.

Guess I've rambled on enough and you can see that we have been busy, so I'll say no more and leave space for others to tell what is going on in their areas. We will try not to get bored this next week and hope you don't either. Those few snow flurries tell us of what is to come, but I'm in no hurry to see it. When in Bethel on Thursday, we saw where they were making snow on Sunday River Skiway, so skiing will soon be ready for all those who love to ski. The water line they have laid to the river should give them a lift in getting snow made when weather permits. They were laying some of it when we went up the Sunday River Road on Thursday. Take care and if you get colds, maybe you should keep them and not give them to others. What a laugh that is. We all seem to get plenty of them without any help, so take care of them as best you can.

NOTES FROM

Evans Notch

White Mountain National Forest

Anyone interested in submitting a bid to maintain approximately 70 duck nesting boxes throughout the Evans Notch Ranger District of the White Mountain National Forest this winter should contact Wayne Miller by Dec. 1.

The Square dock timber sale located in Albany will be offered next month. Bids are due by Dec. 21 at the District office. A showing will be held Nov. 30. For further information contact Wayne Miller or Doug Engelsen.

The recent rains have decreased the fire danger allowing the White Mountain National Forest to lift its ban on open fires.

Stan Jones, Forestry Technician, is transferring to the U. S. Postal Service effective Nov. 24. Stan was a key person in the District's wildlife and timber management programs.

Recently representatives from the State of Maine Land Use Regulatory Commission visited the District to learn how we plan our timber harvests, and consider public involvement, wildlife, water, soils and recreation in the process.

With winter on the way we remind you to drive cautiously on District roads. Freezing rain or light snow can cause unexpected slippery conditions on our narrow and often winding roads.

Information on snowmobiling and cross country skiing opportunities on the Evans Notch District will be available in early December.

On Wednesday, Nov. 23, an open house will be held at the District office. Forest Service personnel will be available to discuss the Draft Forest Plan for the White Mountain National Forest. The hours will be 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The 1984 version of the great American "Thanksgiving" could be billed as "The Greatest Feast on Earth." Dare we speak of poverty as we glance at our own heavily laden tables?

According to tradition families are gathering together to celebrate this most auspicious of occasions.

As Norman Rockwell once depicted the scene on the cover of the Saturday Evening Post, the table was laid with linens and a centerpiece of fall flowers and various fruits of the harvest took center stage. A rather buxom grandmother (white hair pulled back in a bun), resplendent in a red dress and white chef's apron, is entering through the open door of the kitchen, carrying a golden brown, steaming hot turkey, as her grandchildren, wide-eyed, look on with eyes as big as saucers. Grandfather sits at the head of the table with hands folded and head bowed, while the parents of the group are starting to seat themselves.

These Rockwell depictions ran true to form back then in the '20s and '30s when at that time he had come to fame, presenting the illustrations of that best selling weekly periodical.

But what of today? Would his portrayal still be presented in this manner? I think not. Perhaps he would have seen the gathering of the family in this way and would have presented it thusly:

Tables covered with paper disposable cloths with "The Bird" superimposed on its background — half hidden amongst the foliage of his natural habitat. A plastic centerpiece of fruit and flowers — a microwave oven in the background — clicking off the minutes in red flashing lights — defying all present to be prepared to be seated as soon as its timer sounded. A modern grandmother, dressed in a leisurely pant suit, smiling graciously, not a trace of gray in her hair (as only her hairdresser knows for sure). The smaller children roam about, the girls clutching their Cabbage Patch dolls — and the boys with their computerized walkie-talkies. The parents are not to be seen for they are in the rec room, watching the latest movie on the VCR. Mothers of this younger group however, are dressed in designer jeans — chamois shirts and tall leather boots — the fathers neatly moustached — their blown dried tresses hiding all signs of premature baldness — radiating a most masculine macho look — that makes them appear to be a bit older than they really are.

The table is set with plastic coated paper jobbies (which incidently cuts down on the energy consumed by the dishwasher).

Grampa no longer has his head bowed and can scarcely be identified from his much younger counterparts — his hands are not folded but hold a martini.

Time changes — and the scenery may be painted differently — but the greetings are still as warm — happy thanksgiving to all of you and yours — from all of us.

P.S. Don't forget to count your blessings and down with calories. Until next week then, Peace!

Nine year old Stephanie Corriveau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James (Donna) Corriveau, had the misfortune this past week, while at play and jumping from a tree, to fall on a board filled with rusty nails, penetrating the small finger of the right hand — piercing the joints, muscles and tendons of the area. Many special thanks go to Daniel Hannon and wife, Kathy Sweetser and family, Thelma Simmonds and Bertha Tyler who assisted with care and gave Donna and Steph much needed moral support. The little one was transported to Stephens Memorial Hospital, then underwent surgery for 4 hours and is currently improving. For her valor and bravery little Stephanie was awarded with a fluffy pink hand puppet to wear on her left hand.

Chris Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Chapman, received a "letter" for his cross-country running at Telstar, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cross and daughter, Kelsey, were guests of the Gerald Loring's throughout Sunday.

Sally Melville, Laurie Crockett and Elizabeth Bailey of Locke Mills were calling here in town one day last week.

Hunters in the area are seeing a lot of bear, but not as many white tails.

Mary Tyler took her daughter, Kathy, to Portland, last Saturday where they received their 7th degree in the Grange at the National Convention held there.

Nancy Corriveau of Canton was here visiting her daughter, Kathy, Cole, one day last week.

NOTES FROM WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY

We would recommend to you the historical novels of Jean Plaidy. She also writes under the name of Victoria Holt. However, the Jean Plaidy novels are historical romances at its best. They chronicle the Plantagenet, Tudor, and Stuart dynasties as well as the period of Queen Victoria. While Miss Plaidy does embellish considerably, she is quite diligent in sorting out the complicated family tree of the royal family, and events and colorful personalities move rapidly through her works. If she has to supply much, she has also apparently done careful research in the factual historical detail that is available on her subjects. The personalities she treats seldom fail to come alive on the page, and she generally assigns them credible motives. Her books are a most enjoyable introduction to British history. And, after all, should we not enjoy history in such a palatable form as Miss Plaidy provides us with?

There is a fine line between historical romance and history. Many historians disdain the former, but we would not be so legalistic. Imagination often provides us with insight strict history cannot, and history often comes alive through the romantic historian's pen.

Also, Ruby Emery has provided the society with information on the corn shop. It was a highly automated factory remarkably early in Bryant Pond's history. As always we are grateful for Mrs. Emery's research.

And the society is undertaking a project to frame pictures of its past presidents and curators for the museum. It will be good to have these officers' faces preserved for posterity.

Fourteen members met at the home of Violet Swain in East Andover, with Eldora Jones as co-hostess, for the annual meeting of the East Andover Community Club. Nov. 14, 1938 marked the beginning of this club. Two of the ladies who joined on that date are still active members, Charlotte Sennett and Violet P. Swain.

A 6 p.m. pot luck supper was served. This was followed by a business meeting. Eldora Jones, president, conducted the meeting. The October minutes were read. The annual reports given by Violet, secretary, and Barbara Meisner, treasurer, were read.

It was noted the secretary had served in that office for 31 years and the treasurer had held her position for the past 22 years.

Important projects accomplished during the year were remembering all members in the community "70" and over, with Easter baskets; gifts to new babies; cash awards to two local Sunday Schools, Hope Training School, and Andover Telstar senior and floral arrangements. Many cards have been sent out for various reasons.

Membership does not go over 15. Meetings are held in members' homes the second Tuesday of each month, excluding January and August.

A slate of officers was voted on to serve for two years: president, Violet Swain; first vice president, Evelyn Bell; second vice president, Eldora Jones; secretary, Glenna Allen and treasurer, Barbara Meisner.

Glenna Allen will entertain on Dec. 11. Meeting adjourned and mystery sisters were revealed, with a gift, and new names drawn for the coming year. A delightful evening was enjoyed with reminiscing of childhood years.

SUNDAY RIVER SKIWAY

hicle had a price tag of $100,000. Then there were new computers and assorted equipment.

But the big bills were run up in constructing the Cascade Condominium and the Sunrise Condominium. The 100 units thus added to the 60 already at the mountain had a price tag of $3.7 million.

However, all have already been spoken for by eager buyers, according to Mr. Otten, and the sale prices—ranging from $28,500 to $39,500—have helped to fuel the expansion, which began last spring.

In order to pay off the $5 million investment, Mr. Otten says the mountain will have to attract as many skiers as last year — nearly 70,000, he said. And, he added, "If we get the business we expect, we can have a similar profit as last season, and that can be applied to next summer's expansion."

He said the hopes for 75,000 skiers this season, in order to make it a successful season, "that is, one that pays, all the bills and leaves a profit."

While not divulging the margin of profit of the corporation, Mr. Otten pointed out that he has managed to whittle down the deficit from $609,000, when he purchased the resort from the Sherburne Corp. in 1980, to $237,000 at the end of the last season.

He declined to speculate on what direction future expansion might take, but hinted that it would be primarily to improve the skiing rather than to provide more housing. "What I want to accomplish is continue to put in lifts and snow-making," he said. "Short lift lines and good snow to ski on," is what lures the customers, he noted. "Everything else is of secondary concern (to the skiers)."

Of primary concern to local job hunters has been Sunday River's hiring of both construction and service personnel. There have been an average of 25 construction workers at work on the new buildings (not including the scores of subcontractors), said Mr. Otten. And another 15 staffers have been added, in all departments from house-keeping to marketing. Additionally, at least a dozen part-timers have been added to the mountain's work force. In all, Mr. Otten expects to have "over 100" workers on the payroll at the height of the season. When he took over the skiway, the work force numbered 10, he said.

Rotary Club News

The Bethel Rotary Club held its weekly luncheon meeting at The Only Place on Tuesday, Nov. 20. The program chairman was Rolie Glines and his guest speaker was Claus Wiese, office manager of WMTW-TV, channel 8. The program consisted of candid film clips of news commentators, politicians, and others making "blooper" and blunders. The background music of "Tapes of Wrath," "Give Us Dirty Laundry," and "Capital Hill Blues," was as good as the film. It was an hilariously funny program. Thanks for the fine show, Claus.

Rotarian John Todd is program chairman for next week. He will give his classification talk. As a point of interest to our readers, the classification talk is a requirement of Rotary designed to inform club members of the education, family status, occupation, hobbies and sports, travel and work experiences of the new members. These talks help to quickly integrate new members into the club and are highly enjoyed by the membership.

C.P.S. AFTERNOON BUSSING

until 2:30 p.m. to assist student walkers who need to cross the street in that area.

Starting on Monday, Nov. 26, this bus will lead at 2:10 p.m., five minutes before the other busses load at C.P.S. and start. Parents picking up students at C.P.S., are asked to plan to pick them up prior to 2:10 p.m. each afternoon.

The student walkers will be discharged at five sites within Bethel village and should get off the bus the closest to where they are going.

Leaving Crescent Park School going down Crescent Street, the bus will stop and discharge students at the corner of Mason Street. The students who would get off here would be the walkers for the Chapman and Vernon Street areas and would relieve the major Crescent Street congestion. The bus would then turn left down Mason Street and discharge students at Broad Street by the Moses Mason House. Turning right the bus will then stop and discharge students at the top of Main Street by Gillies and the Bethel Library. The bus will then turn right onto Main Street, travel down Main Street stopping and discharging students in front of the former Brown's Variety Store Building. The bus will then turn left onto Elm Street, then right onto High Street with the final drop-off site for discharging students behind the Casco Bank.

Families are asked to discuss these changes in the afternoon schedule so that the students will be able to know the details and at which stop they should leave the bus.

Families affected having questions or concerns over the next few weeks as the system is tried, should not hesitate to call Nancy Davis at C.P.S., 824-2839; Sonny Blake at the bus garage, 824-2474, or the Superintendent's Office, 824-2185. Any parental input regarding the program is needed before Dec. 21, as the bussing change will be evaluated during the Christmas vacation period.

NEW SIXTH GRADE PLAN

On the other hand, he can also see the advantages of keeping the 6th graders in a K-6 environment. But, he pointed out, in that case, they will lose out on opportunities they currently enjoy at Telstar, such as shop, home-ec, music, etc.

If the 6th graders are taken out of Telstar, said the principal, he would not be in favor of having a middle school with only two grades, 7th and 8th. "You're here and gone," he said.

Both elementary school principals are firmly in favor of having the 6th graders in their schools.

Both Nancy Davis, principal of Ethel Bisbee and Crescent Park, and David Murphy, principal of Andover and Woodstock, told the Citizen the presence of 6th graders gives stability to an elementary school. Mr. Murphy explained that since they are more mature, the 6th graders set a good example for the younger students.

Currently there are 12 6th graders in the Andover School, out of a total enrollment of 90. The Woodstock School has 18 6th graders, out of a total enrollment of 122, while Telstar has 52 6th graders in the middle school.

The combined enrollment of CPS/EBS is currently 344 with no 6th graders. If Telstar's current 52 6th graders were put into an expanded Crescent Park, the enrollment there would be 396.

The physical expansion of the school—an additional 23,000 square feet—would more than double the present area of 15,000 square feet. However, Ethel Bisbee's 9,000 square feet of space would be taken out of use. Thus, the net gain in space would be 23,000 for the addition minus 9,000 for Ethel Bisbee, or 14,000 square feet.

Superintendent Craig emphasized that the expansion plans for

COMMUNITY ED PROGRAM TO HOLD CHRISTMAS WORKSHOPS

There will be several Christmas Workshops during the week of Dec. 10 sponsored by the SAD 44 Adult & Community Education program. Director Cathy Newell announced that the workshops have been designed to provide a relaxing evening during the pre-Christmas season while assisting those enrolled in preparing something special for the holidays.

On Tuesday, Dec. 11, Julie Daye will teach a one-evening class in Making Cream Horns, a special dessert treat. The class will be held at Telstar Regional High School at 7, with a lab fee of $4. On Wednesday, Dec. 12, also at 7 p.m., Merton Brown will hold a Christmas Cookie Bake, at which students will prepare and decorate several types of Christmas cookies. A lab fee will be charged.

On Monday, Dec. 10, Jan Todd will offer a one-evening class devoted to making a cross-stitch framed ornament. The project will be finished during the class and there will be a lab fee.

The Adult and Community Education program will serve Christmas refreshments during the Christmas Special week. To enroll in any of the workshops and for other information call the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780. All supplies will be provided for the Christmas workshops.

Crescent Park are still in the planning stage and will not affect the plans for a new elementary school in Woodstock, which plans have already been approved by the state.

"We're not going to put Woodstock on the back burner," he said. "We'll do Woodstock, and then we'll do Bethel."

The Teacher and Parent Organization at the Bethel elementary schools are expected to discuss the proposed changes in January.

Safety Tip

Antibiotics are extremely effective against bacterial infections, such as strep throat, pneumonia and ear infections. However, these drugs are totally ineffective against viral infections such as the flu or the cold. Furthermore, antibiotics can be deadly when misused; two types especially risky for children follow.

Tetracycline: It can cause discoloration of the permanent teeth and nails in children under eight. It can also slow bone growth and damage the liver. Because of the effects, it is not recommended for children under 12.

Ampicillin: Anyone allergic to penicillin should not take this drug. It can cause, nausea, diarrhea, vomiting, anemia, rashes and inflammation of the mouth. Better for children is the similar drug, amoxicillin, one much less likely to cause trouble.

As with any medication—check with your doctor. Never give a child someone else's medication and never give a child an adult dosage.

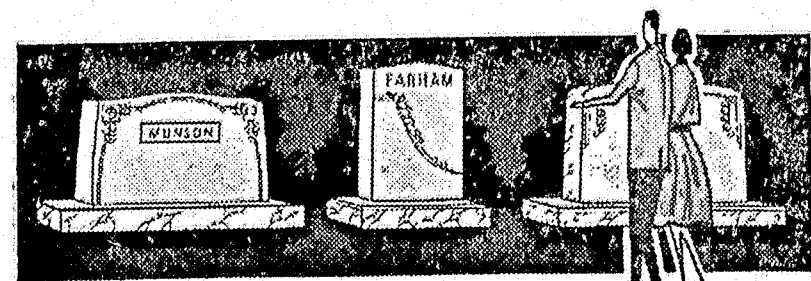

Next week: tips for protecting your child's health.

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Callista Morgan, Corres. —

I can see the early morning sun rising over the hills. It brings us a bright new day so we can start a new beginning. Thus it has been over the years. Take one example, the country roads, which crowded in the mellow sunshine. Even now we find a few back from the speeding traffic. The wind near singing brooks and twist and curve with the contour of the land. But most are improved highways.

Many of the old weather-grayed, splintered bridges, have been replaced. Today history can be read in these semi-abandoned roadways.

The old stone walls and split log fences were built along beside them. These walls represent years of labor put in by the farmers. No doubt the foundation was laid during the warmer seasons, when the frost was out of the ground.

In winter or times when duties were lighter more was added. They were then built in sections, with the ox teams and the neighbors' help.

These walls have stood for centuries with a variation of style. There were the double walls filled between with small stones. In many sections the stones were so numerous that one could almost think they had been dusted out of a salt shaker. There were those also, known as faced walls. The farmers had selected stones so that he could lay a smooth face on one side. Fencing was necessary to the farmer, as a place for the grazing cattle.

With new beginnings, these walls and fences that are left are half hidden by bushes, trees, fall asters, and goldenrods. Many of these roads pass places where the farmers used to live. There are old chimneys and cellar holes. Observing them now we note three tracks; those made by the wagon wheels and the center made by the scuff of the foot of the horses. We are then reminded of days gone when these quiet roads were well populated.

One of these roads stands out especially in my memory. My hiking pal and I followed one to a place she once lived. A shower came up, as we were leaving, by the way of the railroad toward home. It moved fast booming with thunder and sharp with lightning. We had no choice but to keep going.

After a few minutes there appeared before us something on the tracks. The rain was so heavy that I had to remove my glasses so that I could see better.

I said, "Do you see what I see?" The answer was, "A Moose!" It surely was and walking toward us. I was more frightened of the lightning than of the moose. I slapped my leg and said, "Clear the track" or something like that. He did, and I don't wonder for one glance at us was enough! We were surely drenched and bedraggled!

So with November half gone and winter beginning to fling its introduction over the land, where snow flurries have dusted the fields and pastures, there will be a new beginning.

To my readers I send this poem, to wish you a Happy Thanksgiving.

A Prayer to Share with Your Family at Thanksgiving

"We thank Thee, Lord, for many things.

For the year's bounteous offerings:

For fertile fields and amber slices,

And brilliant hues where daylight dies;

We thank Thee, Lord, for friends who care

In time of grief and deep despair;

For freedom that is so complete—

For all the neighbors on our street;

For courage on the rugged road,

And strength to bear the daily load.

We thank Thee, Lord, for hearth-fires bright,

When comes the darkness of the night;

For all that makes this life worth living

A help to hallow this Thanksgiving."

THIS WEEK AT THE MOSES MASON HOUSE

On Wednesday, Nov. 14, the Society held its annual volunteer dinner for all those who helped with the Moses Mason Museum during 1984. As usual a delicious boiled dinner was served followed by the traditional gingerbread and whipped cream. Museum Committee Chairman Judy Haskell thanked all those present for making this year 1984 the best yet. Attendance was the best in the ten years the museum has been operating. Two special feature exhibits "Martha Fildfield Walkins" and "Alphon and Roxanna Twitchell: Folk Art Portraits" greatly added to the interest. Society Director Stanley Howe also expressed gratitude for all those who worked not only in the museum, but in the gardens and grounds and in special events such as the flower show during Sudbury Canada Days and Homecoming.

Those assisting this year were: Millie Thomas, Floribel Haines, Agnes Haines, Rosalind Chapman, Mary Valentine, Gertrude Hutchins, Persis Post, Helen Morton, Amy Davis, Sylvia Wight, Nancy Mercer, Edith Robertson, Jane Vogt, Barbara Douglass, Terry Perry, Millie Jackson, Gerry Howe, Florence Hastings, Dick Hastings, Josephine Monahan, Ruth Wight, Sudie Vachon, Margaret Joy Tibbets, Randy Bennett, and Barbara Henrick Brown.

The fall issue of the Society newsletter, "The Bethel Courier" is expected to be out soon as is the 1985 Bethel Historical Society Calendar.

Latest contributors to the 1984 Endowment Campaign include Nancy H. Mercer, Bethel; Royden and Alice Keddy, Gorham; Doris Lord, Haines City, Fla.; Dan and Rosalie Wight, Rumbold; Alvin Barth, Bethel. This brings to 274 individuals and businesses that have contributed over 75% of the $7,000 goal. Much appreciation is expressed for this generosity and to all those who have made this progress possible.

Tammunen, Doris Hayes, Zilpha Di-Arenzo, Fay Holt, Helen Chojnacki, Callista Morgan and the hostess, Anna Janvenpaa.

It was nice to meet Mr. Wiedeman of The Citizen last Monday.

South Woodstock

— Olive Davis, Corres. —

We finally got our fall rain. I hope the wells have benefited from it. Several were without water in various places.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mason and Jerold were in Portland Saturday evening shopping. Jerold is singing in the chorus at the Freeport High School, Dec. 7. He will be in the choral group singing at Bates College.

We lost our lights on Curtis Hill Road at noon Wednesday. I had just finished baking bars as they left us. The wind was whistling around quite well then.

Tuesday, I called on the Schrecks and Barnetts, Kay and Ruth each had birthdays on the same day.

Friday night, Richard Felt, Johny Howe, Olive Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Bennett joined with Harold Canwell who took us to Presumpscot Grange, Westbrook. Some members from West Paris Grange also attended.

Saturday Lettie Brooks took Callista Curtis and Olive Davis to the retired teachers meeting at the South Paris Congregational Church where they had dinner and were entertained by the Vikings, a chorus from Oxford Hills High School.

In the evening Lettie and Carl Brooks and I went to Historical Society at Bryant Pond.

tion was to jump into the long-smoldering grader issue — whether to buy a used one or a new one or none at all.

"I think you'd be better off buying a new one," he said. "When you buy a used one you're buying someone else's problems, is the way I look at it. When you buy a grader that's a 1975 (as two have been offered) you're asking for trouble."

Chairman Jodrey, who has been the strongest voice for purchasing a new grader, appealed to his board: "Do we want to get this off center? Are we serious? We know it'll cost up to $100,000. We know that. If we could just agree to seriously take offense."

Mr. Jodrey figured it would require the $35,000 already approved by town meeting as a down payment, plus $1,000 a month to get the replacement grader paid off.

Some members of the board were not certain, however, that they wanted to commit themselves to a new machine. Selectman Pat Doon said, "We won't know if we want to buy unless we see some figures." And Selectman Alden Kennett agreed: "I don't know if we can be serious unless we explore it."

While not committing itself, the board did agree to update the specifications for a new grader and send them around to dealers so that they could receive formal price quotes.

In other business, the board:

★ Approved a request by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce to erect a Christmas tree on the Common. Chamber spokeswoman Robin Zinchuk told the board she had already been in touch with P.H. Chadbourne Co. who said they would donate a big tree if the chamber would erect it and light it. The board also wanted guarantees that the chamber would clean up after the Christmas season ends and voted to take a $50 deposit, to be returned after clean-up is complete.

★ Approved a motion to apply to the state for snowmobile municipal grant-in-aid funds to defray costs of maintaining local snowmobile trails. The funds are to be administered locally by John Mason of the Woodstock snowmobile brothers, Dana of West Paris and Paul of South Hiram; and a sister, Theresa Willnauer of North Aurora, Ill.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the North Paris Cemetery.

Among the boys,

FACTS ON BLOOD

Someone needs blood every 17 seconds, 365 days a year. Two hundred units a day are used in Maine.

Sixty percent of us will need blood during our lifetime, and less than 5% of the population donates blood.

With the technological advances of the past few years, one pint of blood can help at least four different people.

It takes six to eight minutes for a pint of blood to flow into a plastic container, and when it's all over, you even get a cookie!

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and the Jackson-Silver Post of the American Legion urge you to find out the facts.

The American Red Cross Blood Drive will visit the West Parish Congregational Church on Church Street, Bethel, on Monday, Nov. 26, from 2-7 p. m., and would be happy to answer all questions.

All wishing to help are asked to contact Dee-Dee Kellogg at 824-2008.
